Judy Cook

Judy has choreographed for Manitoba Opera, Prairie Theatre Exchange, Vagabond Theatre, television, and Fringe Festival performances, as well as for many musical theatre and multicultural events for high schools and communities. As a dancer, she has appeared at the National Arts Centre, Rainbow Stage, and venues across Canada and the United States, and toured with Bravado Dance Cabaret.

Judy has worked for the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, Winnipeg's Contemporary Dancers, Osborne Street Dance Club, the University of Manitoba, and ArtsSmarts. She expertly shares her dance knowledge and creativity with children and teachers in the school setting, and loves to collaborate with others to create special dance/music performances. She was the dance specialist for a two-year research project creating a dance program focusing on children with Fetal Alcohol Syndrome in Norway House Cree Nation, and was part of a panel to share the research at a Very Special Arts Festival (VSA) held in Washington, DC. She has had very positive experiences creating dance programs for children with disabilities.

PROGRAM

Emphasis is on developing individual and collaborative creativity while experiencing the joy of movement. Warm-up, coordination skills, body control, dynamics of movement, musicality, and improvisation are explored. A final performance is optional.

Each school or individual class teachers can choose from: Dance — Students begin by learning basic elements of dance and choreography through games and dance studies, and are then guided to create original group dance works, Arts Integration — Poetry, paintings, stories, music, or class studies are used as an inspirational springboard to create original dance works or Special Performance Projects (by advance consultation with the artist) — Judy collaborates with teachers, students, and/or community artists for special events, usually culminating in a community performance.

Brenda Gorlick

Brenda has worked for over 35 years in the performing arts as a performer, choreographer, director, and with youth on a national level as an instructor, clinician, adjudicator, and mentor. She is particularly proud of her affiliation with the Society for Manitobans with Disabilities where she serves as dance coach and choreographer for the All Abilities Dancers.

Brenda has worked for every theatre and stadium in Winnipeg, choreographing over 150 productions, including the 103rd Grey Cup Gala. Brenda has gained a reputation as being the “Flash Mob Queen of Manitoba”

Brenda serves as Associate Artistic Director for Winnipeg Studio Theatre and helms the StudioWorks Youth and Adults Only Ensembles for emerging and established musical theatre artists. Her artistic achievements include a Women of Distinction Award, induction into the Rainbow Stage’s Wall of Fame, and the Winnipeg Studio Theatre’s Award of Excellence.

PROGRAM

MUSICAL THEATRE/DANCE/STORY THEATRE combines Brenda’s passion for dance, theatre, and music into one program. As a specialist in musical theatre, she is able to introduce “triple threat technique” to students who have little or no exposure to the performing arts through theatre games, rhythm exercises, dance creation, improvisation, and vocal work. The material Brenda incorporates ranges from classical themes to contemporary culture. Her program can be adapted to the particular needs of a class, grade level or school curriculum, and has often involved video-making, “flash mobbing”, and story development.

The program emphasis is the creative process and skill development of the students. Brenda incorporates a lot of physical interaction and helps guide students to find their own interpretive voice.

A sharing session at the end of the residency features material developed over the course of the week(s).

Casimiro Nhussi

Born in Mozambique, Africa, Casimiro has been a dance professional since 1982. Before coming to Winnipeg he was the Artistic Director of the Mozambique National Dance Company and attended the Alvin Ailey American Dance School in New York. He is Artistic Director and founder of Winnipeg's only African contemporary dance company, NAFro Dance Productions.

Casimiro is a professional dancer, choreographer, dance instructor, and accomplished musician. He has worked as a dance instructor and choreographer for the School of Contemporary Dancers and the Royal Winnipeg Ballet's Recreation Program. He has performed and led African dance workshops in 28 countries.

Casimiro was commissioned by the Canadian National Film Board to compose music for the animated short Mind Me Good Now. He was nominated for the 2010 and 2013 Western Canadian Music awards for his CDs Makonde and Gweka.

Since 1998, Casimiro has been teaching in schools across Manitoba as part of MAC's Artists in the Schools Residency Program.

PROGRAM

Casimiro's program is simple and exciting; it gives students the opportunity to experience African culture through dance, music, and storytelling. Students also experience the basic elements of choreography and improvisation using African dance and stories, and have the opportunity to dress like African women and warrior dancers.

Students learn about some traditional African dances including: Mapiko, the mask dance from Mozambique; Gumboot, known as the boot dance, and the Zulu warrior dance Indlamu (both from South Africa); and Zikwatcha, a celebration dance from Mozambique and Tanzania.

Casimiro will deepen student cultural understanding through stories such as The Lion Story, the Human Creation Story, The Monkey Story, and Casimiro's personal childhood story.

At the end of the journey, Casimiro and the students will make a small presentation to the school.

Rebecca Sawdon

REBECCA SAWDON is an independent contemporary dance artist with extensive experience as a dance interpreter and performer, including performances for Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra and Winnipeg's Contemporary Dancers, amongst others. Rebecca has toured, performed and taught across Canada. As the Artistic Director of Sawdon Dance, she successfully self-produced and performed a full-length solo production. Rebecca is a graduate from the School of Contemporary Dancers, holds a BA Honors Degree in Dance from the University of Winnipeg, and has trained professionally in Europe.

Rebecca has extensive experience working with youth and as a dance instructor, mentor and rehearsal director. From pre-professionals to non-dancers, she has taught students from all walks of life, including those with cognitive and physical disabilities. An Integrated Arts educator for St. James-Assiniboia School Division, Rebecca teaches students curricular content through dance, and trains teachers on how to incorporate movement into classes.

Rebecca is passionate about developing innovative programming, and is eager to inspire youth.

PROGRAM

CREATIVE CONTEMPORARY MOVERS offers unique and alternative ways of learning through dance, allowing students the opportunity to build self-esteem as life-long learners and movers. Students learn the value of movement and develop many important life skills through a planned five-day program. Topics include introduction to movement, understanding of body mechanics, self-care, fitness, theatre terminology, local dance history, and contemporary dance technique, including comparisons to different dance styles. Students develop an understanding of space, rhythm, weight, balance, flow, and the limitless combinations they provide.

Active participation in set exercises, improvisations, and group-created choreography allows students to personally discover dance and explore self-expression. Students and staff help decide which elements are important to a task, exercise, or performance, and cooperatively develop instructor, peer, and self-evaluations. Students showcase their new skills through small class presentations or a large final performance. Imaginations flourish, self-esteem grows, and fun ensues!

Alicia Taylor

Alicia is from the small northern community of Flin Flon, Manitoba. She has been an early childhood educator for eight years and is currently studying for her Bachelor of Social Work. Her passion for community building has helped Alicia realize her ability to teach using the gifts of Mother Nature. Alicia learnt hoop dancing at a young age and the dance has given her an appreciation of culture, pride, respect for the land and all its people, courage, health, a positive self-identity, and the ability to make good choices. She feels it is her obligation to pass on the opportunities hoop dancing offers with others. Alicia has been teaching hoop dancing to children for the last ten years and many of her students continue to dance and teach today.

HOOP DANCING

As an ancient aboriginal hoop dancer it is important to teach the dance with an emphasis on respect. The dancers are taught to respect the hoops as they will take them far in life; to respect themselves and their bodies; to respect others as they will work together in an inclusive and positive atmosphere. The dancers encourage others to make healthy life choices and abstain from drugs and alcohol. They are to respect the land and all it has to offer and they listen to their elders as they have much to teach.

The dance has evolved over many years and is now the only known aboriginal dance that includes both male and female dancers. It is a form of storytelling as the hoops are used to tell stories about creation and life experiences as they make static and dynamic shapes.

Hoop dancing is a healing dance. Elders have said that the hoops create a positive energy when passed over the dancer. They listen to the beat of the drum which is the heart beat of Mother Nature. The dancers become focused and their mind clear as they move through the hoops. The positive energy created is healing for the dancer as well as those they dance for.

The seven teachings of humility, respect, love, wisdom, honesty, courage, and truth are reinforced throughout the lessons. Through creative expression the students will learn from each other and their individual needs will guide the direction of the lessons.

Students will be encouraged to take ownership of their learning by giving a short performance for peers or family.

Ofield Williams

Art has paved the way to where Ofield is today both musically and personally. His intimate love and knowledge for what music and art can do fuels his passion for creating, learning, and sharing.

Ofield has created distinctive artistic installations and events that have had lasting and meaningful impact on community. His work is focussed on creating environments that are visually engaging while encouraging and promoting sharing among artists.

Ofield embraces diversity and believes that cultural differences can actually tie us together. He uses his music and art to educate and raise awareness of global, environmental, and Indigenous issues.

His programs educate through a non-traditional platform and promote the holistic benefit of engaging and participating in the arts.

PROGRAM

BREAKDANCIN' YOGA combines 26 Hatha Asanas (designed to scientifically warm and stretch muscles), core breathing exercises, and the basic fundamentals of world renowned "b-boying/b-girling" (AKA "breakdancing").

The program opens students' minds to creative studies and self-exploration. Students will be encouraged to attach their own "style" to lessons learned. In essence, this is an ideal precursor to the world that awaits them.

Teachers over the years have found great joy in watching their students grow from using the program's character-building skill sets. Catering to all ages, the program not only stimulates minds but also prepares muscle groups for further growth!

A school presentation will be shared at the end of Ofield's residency.

Film Roots

Tooz A Crowd Productions

Tooz a Crowd Productions is an independent film production company with several film shorts and music videos to its credit. The company, comprised of filmmaker Randy Guest and actor/screenwriter Leigh-Anne Kehler, has worked in schools for the past 10 years and has co-created over 300 student films. Two of those films garnered top prizes at the national Panasonic Student Film Competition in Toronto. Randy has over 75 production credits to his name, and Leigh-Anne performs around the world as a storyteller. This husband-and-wife team endeavours to bring a sense of artistry, creativity, and kindness to the classroom.

PROGRAM

Students are treated like professional filmmakers, from beginning to end.

Kindergarten to grade three focus on using the camera to tell a story, by choosing creative compositions.

Grades four to six work as a team, taking the roles of director, assistant director, director of photography, art department, locations manager, and the talent.

Junior and senior high students work in a writers' workshop setting, learning the process of going from idea to script, with the knowledge of all possible shots and angles.

A variety of genres and styles will be encouraged, including music videos, clay animation, documentary, mockumentary, experimental, comedy, and drama. Editing workshops can be included, but the bulk of the time will be spent understanding the relationship between the camera and the imagination. In-camera editing without the need for software will be explored, and secrets and tricks will be revealed. Yes, you can make a movie in a 30-minute class!

Your students will never view media the same way again; they will be able to create movies and run a film set like the pros. Roll camera! Action!

Freeze Frame

Freeze Frame is Manitoba's media arts centre for young people. The centre offers educational and cultural media arts experiences to young people and hosts the annual Winnipeg International Film Festival for Kids of All Ages. Freeze Frame is a not-for-profit organization and registered Manitoba charity, incorporated in 1996. Freeze Frame's mandate is to provide educational opportunities for children and youth to develop media literacy, critical thinking skills, and the ability to express themselves through film and video—essential attributes in a world where communication through all media is becoming increasingly important and complex.

PROGRAM

ANIMATION

Using plasticine, students learn about the processes involved in the creation of an animated film, from story development to final editing. Students participate in special exercises, including imagining a story, storyboarding, and character and scenery creation. An introduction to camera techniques and frame- by-frame animation will also be provided.

Once filming is completed, the Freeze Frame facilitator will offer an introduction to editing. The final assembly, including the addition of titles, credits and a soundtrack, can be a long process and will be completed by the facilitator at the Freeze Frame office. The finished DVD is sent to the school.

VIDEO PRODUCTION

This workshop allows students to experiment with video cameras. Students learn simple, in-camera special effects from demonstrations and hands-on experience. Students explore and learn the skills and techniques needed to tell their stories visually, through a series of exercises, including the creation of a story, development of a storyboard, and introduction to camera techniques.

PAPER ANIMATION

After a short demonstration, students are put in the driver's seat of their stories where they breathe life into ordinary pieces of paper.

The room becomes a flurry of activity as students cut, colour, and bend paper into characters, props, and sets.

Paper is then slowly moved across the camera's play space. Through the process, where at the end, it is fed back as a short film.

Through the creation of whole worlds in a group setting, students think about space, movement, structure, content and how to professionally use a digital camera.

Examples of Paper Animation and other forms of animation (Shadow Animation, Doodle Animation, and Paint Animation) which can be tailored to fit all age groups, skill levels, and themes are available on Daniele's website.

Lasha Mowchun

While working towards her Bachelors of Fine Arts at the University of Manitoba, Lasha Mowchun developed herself as a filmmaker, graduating with a major in video art. In the years following, she created films that have screened locally, as well as in Europe and the United States. Lasha has received funding for her work from agencies such as the Winnipeg Arts Council, Video Pool, and the Jewish Foundation.

Lasha has taught at Graffiti Art Programming, Turtle Island Neighborhood Centre, the Boys and Girls Club, Norquay Community Centre, Ralph Brown Community Centre, and in homeschooling programs. Lasha's teaching style encourages experimentation and focuses on strengthening communities, friendships, and self-confidence.

PROGRAM

ANIMATED LEARNING will use animation techniques to transform elements of the students' curriculum from abstract knowledge into tangible, hands-on learning. For example, the animation program could be adapted to a science class to tell the story of the Big Bang or the story of evolution, using claymation and whiteboard animation.

This program encourages communication with educators to establish learning goals, which will be promoted within the animation process. The animation workshop focuses on stop-motion animation, covering a variety of styles including claymation, whiteboard animation, paper animation, and pixelation.

Depending on the length of the residency, time could be made to address some fundamental animation related questions. For example, resolving the mystery behind how cameras work through pinhole camera exercises, and, using flipbooks, showing how motion blur creates the illusion of movement.

While building storytelling skills, students acquire a well-rounded understanding of animation.

In this workshop, the students' classroom lessons become part of their imaginative world through play, experimentation, and improvisation.

Karin Adams & Anita Lebeau

Karin Adams is an enthusiastic creative writing coach and the author of four humorous novels for middle grade readers including Lights! Curtains! Cows!, No TV? No Fair!, and My Best Friend is a Viral Dancing Zombie. Her 2014 novel Frostbite Hotel has been shortlisted for the 2016 Diamond Willow Award (SYRCA) and the 2016 Hackmatack Children's Choice Book Award.

Anita Lebeau is a filmmaker with a focus on animation and documentary film. Her two National Film Board animated shorts Louise (2004) and Big Drive (2011) have won numerous international awards. Anita has directed and edited four documentary films along with filmmaker Scott Collins for MTS—Stories from Home. She teaches Digital and Stop Motion Animation at the University Of Manitoba School Of Art.

PROGRAM

SCRAPHIC NOVELS is a lively mash-up of creative writing, comic strips, graphic novels, and scrapbooking. Through a series of intense (-ly fun!) writing and art workshops, students make 3-D books that pop with arts and crafts materials—and even ready-to-be-recycled items!

Each session involves energizing discussions, art demos, and hands-on time for creative work. Students not only build amazing books, but learn invaluable lessons about planning and process that they can apply to future projects. Evans Coffie (Coffieman)

Evans Coffie was born and raised in Accra, Ghana, West Africa. As a member of the Ghana Dance Ensemble, Evans toured the world. Since immigrating to Canada, he has worked as a dancer, drummer, vocalist and choreographer. Coffieman's vibrant teaching techniques engage and motivate students to learn.

PROGRAM

AFRICAN RHYTHMS AND MOVEMENTS This program offers students of all ages a chance to explore authentic African culture through music and dance. Students are given hands-on interactive experience with African musical instruments.

Students are taught through songs and stories from long ago. By learning about the intentions of the rhythms and movements that originated in West Africa, the students will develop a greater understanding of African culture.

A typical one-week residency begins with an opening ceremony, featuring a performance by Coffieman of his signature jungle song.

Coffieman works with 6 – 8 different groups over the course of the week, providing sufficient opportunity for the students to fully absorb the rhythms and dance of African culture. At the end of the week, the students' work is highlighted at a school assembly with a showcase performance, allowing the students to demonstrate their new-found African rhythms and movements!

Casimiro Nhussi & Jay Stoller

Casimiro and Jay began working together in 1998 and have not looked back. Although coming from different parts of the world, they soon found their mutual interest in African music and dance would lead to a highly complementary partnership. Together, they co-founded the African ensemble Bafana and have staged numerous performances and workshops across Canada. Their Artists in the Schools program has run since 2000. Jay holds a BPE, B.Ed and a Diploma in African Music from the University of Ghana, where he studied music for four years. Casimiro was the Artistic Director of the Mozambique National Dance Company for six years and currently leads Winnipeg's NAfro Dance Productions.

PROGRAM

Jay and Casimiro offer an excellent African music and dance program, which incorporates elements of music, physical education, and social studies curricula.

The music component of the program is focused on instruction in African drumming and traditional percussion instruments. The dance component introduces students to African dance and movement, along with basic elements of choreography through improvisation.

Students are introduced to the importance and function of music and dance in traditional African societies, as well as the diversity of styles present in Africa. They will learn how African people use dance, music, and stories as an integral part of life. On the final day, students provide a demonstration of their skills in drumming and dancing for the school population and parents.

Karin Adams

Karin Adams is an enthusiastic creative writing coach and the author of four humorous novels for middle grade readers including Lights! Curtains! Cows!, No TV? No Fair!, and My Best Friend is a Viral Dancing Zombie. Her 2014 novel Frostbite Hotel has been shortlisted for the 2016 Diamond Willow Award (SYRCA) and the 2016 Hackmatack Children's Choice Book Award.

Karin has a passion for exploring the exciting universe of creative writing with young people. Her lively workshops invite students to build intriguing fictional characters, plot with storyboards, express imaginative ideas with sparkling language, and to embrace revision as a necessary (and yes —even fun!) step in the writing process.

In addition to her work with Artists in the Schools, Karin has offered writing workshops through Winnipeg One School Division's Engaging Fusion program and the Winnipeg Public Library.

PROGRAM

FROM SPARK TO FINISH!

Karin Adams' fun, interactive creative writing program helps students transform the first spark of an idea into an expressive, engaging piece of fiction.

Karin presents techniques and strategies to help students learn the craft of creative writing, from 'brainstorming' ideas, to plotting with storyboards, to the all-important (and incredibly creative) revision step. Each session involves group discussion time and fun writing activities (not always involving paper and pencils!).

Students, working with their peers, also give and receive positive feedback and constructive criticism, another invaluable aspect of the writing process.

Throughout the program, Karin will share excerpts from her own books and 'artifacts' from her writing process (storyboards, notebooks, webs— and piles and piles of rough drafts). Students see first-hand how a published story evolves from idea into a book.

Bob Armstrong

Bob Armstrong is the author of the novel Dadolescence (Turnstone Press, 2011) and several plays that have been performed by professional theatre companies, at the Fringe Festival and in Winnipeg schools. He's also a professional speechwriter and writes environmental impact reports for Manitoba's Clean Environment Commission.

Have you ever opened a copy of The Lord of the Rings or the Narnia books and lost yourself in the map at the front of the book?

Maps help us see the world of stories, which is why there is often one at the beginning of so many fantasy, adventure, and historical novels. Maps show not just where people live, but how they live and how they interact with their world. A map, therefore, contains within it the history of the place it depicts.

In this residency, Bob will encourage participants to create maps that tell or supplement a story.

Bob will employ an exercise he uses in his adult creative writing classes: asking participants to create a map of their world (school, neighbourhood, community) and then write the story that is illustrated by the map.

Moving beyond the individual level, the maps can be put together to create a larger map, containing many stories. Inspired by the map-making exercise in the popular game Settlers of Catan, and by looking at the impact of mountains, deserts and other geographic features on patterns of settlement, the maps can also be used to visualize how the natural environment affects our lives.

By writing and mapping stories, students can explore their world, or any fantasy world they'd like to create.

FINDING YOUR VOICE

In these unique classes, student will be challenged to find their writer's voice — to discover they have something to say and the ability to say it.

Each session includes writing prompts, discussions, and exercises to open up imagination. Participants give and receive verbal feedback and learn tips on building creativity, observation, compassion, skills, and motivation. They listen to each other, role play, and read their work aloud.

If the school selects a two-week residency, students learn about basic elements of a short story, including: character, plot, theme, dialogue, mood, viewpoint, conflict, rising action, climax, and resolution. Students will write and edit an original short story.

If requested, stories can be collected and shared, and students can do formal readings to a larger audience.

Margaret Shaw-Mackinnon

Margaret Shaw-MacKinnon writes for children, young adults, and adults. She has a background in both visual and literary art, with a BFA and an MA in English. Her award-winning literary fairy tale Tiktala, illustrated by Laszlo Gal, was published in 1996 by Stoddart in Toronto and Holiday House in New York, and was reprinted in soft cover in 2006 by Fitzhenry and Whiteside. She has written 20 one-page stories for a National Film Board (Montréal) youth website, and in 2001, her essay "Birth, Death and the Eleusinian Mysteries" was published in Dropped Threads. The same year, she completed a Parks Canada Reader's Theatre play on Manitoba's history for children in Grades 4-6.

In April 2008, Margaret launched her youth novel The Beech Nut of Big Water Beach (Aivilo Press) with an accompanying anti-bullying guide.

PROGRAM

Margaret tailor-makes her program for each group she visits, from K-12. Each session will include discussions about story writing and/or illustrating, as well as time for students to engage in writing or illustrating exercises.

Young students focus on illustrations and the connection between word and image, while older students concentrate more on writing exercises to create strong characters, plot, and theme, along with other elements of fiction.

Margaret has taught children's literature at the university level and always leads students into an appreciation of this rich world. One variation on Margaret's program involves a creative immersion in Manitoba's history through Margaret's Reader's Theatre play.

An exciting new addition to Margaret's program begins with a reading of her youth novel The Beech Nut of Big Water Beach, and takes off into a creative, transformative exploration of the theme of bullying.

Fubuki Daiko

For over 20 years, Fubuki Daiko's members have been bringing the art of taiko (Japanese drumming) to schools throughout Manitoba. Trained by Grandmaster Seiichi Tanaka, the father of North American taiko, the group has thrilled audiences throughout Canada, the United States, Mexico and Poland with their musicianship, humour, and sheer physical stamina. Collaborations with a wide range of groups – including Ron Paley's Big Band, the Winnipeg Singers, the Moses Mayes Family Funk Band, and the Northern Plains Ballet – continue to fuel their quest for excellence and innovation in this ancient art form. Their debut CD received a Prairie Music Award for Outstanding Instrumental Recording.

PROGRAM

On the first day, the entire school is introduced to the art form through a performance by the full ensemble. For rural residencies, a presentation by the two visiting artists is offered on the first day.

On subsequent days, two artists teach students the cultural etiquette of taiko, basic drumming skills, and a simple song. This can give a large number of students a brief taste of taiko, or provide a smaller number (four to eight groups per week) with a more intensive training experience.

The age-appropriate sessions draw on elements of physical education, music, theatre, and dance, all within a Japanese cultural setting. For residencies with more contact time, participating students perform for the entire school on the final day.

SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS: 21 chairs and 21 used car tires (cleaned and duct-taped; approx. 10-12 rolls). Tires may be obtained free from garages or schools that have previously participated in the program. Winnipeg schools may borrow a set of duct taped tires free of charge, but are required to arrange for their transportation and possible long term storage. Alternatively, schools in Winnipeg can rent plastic trash-can drums for $50/residency. Schools are required to arrange for transportation of the trash-can drums before and after the residency.

Fubuki Daiko

Depuis plus de vingt ans, les membres du groupe Fabuki Daiko présentent l'art des percussions japonaises taiko aux écoles du Manitoba. Formés par le grand maître Seiichi Tanaka, le père des percussions taiko en Amérique du Nord, les membres du groupe ont ébloui divers auditoires partout au Canada, aux États-Unis, au Mexique et en Pologne avec leur virtuosité musicale, leur humour et leur endurance physique incroyable. Les collaborations de Fabuki Daiko avec un large éventail de groupes, y compris le Ron Paley's Big Band, les Winnipeg Singers, le Moses Mayes Family Funk Band et le Northern Plains Ballet, continuent d'alimenter sa quête d'excellence et d'innovation dans cette ancienne discipline artistique. Leur premier disque compact a remporté le prix du meilleur disque instrumental lors des Prairie Music Awards.

PROGRAMME

Au cours des journées subséquentes, deux musiciens enseignent aux élèves l'étiquette culturelle des percussions taiko, les compétences de base en matière de percussion et une chanson simple.

Cette approche permet de donner à un grand nombre d'élèves un aperçu des percussions taiko ou d'offrir à de petits nombres d'élèves (4 à 8 groupes par semaine) une formation plus intensive. Les séances adaptées à l'âge des élèves ont recours à des éléments d'éducation physique, de musique, de théâtre et de danse dans un contexte culturel japonais. Pour les stages qui prévoient des périodes de présence accrues, les élèves participants présentent un spectacle devant toute l'école le dernier jour.

EXIGENCES SPÉCIFIQUES : 21 chaises et 21 pneus d'auto usagés (nettoyés et recouverts de ruban à conduits; de 10 à 12 rouleaux). On peut obtenir des pneus gratuits chez des garagistes ou auprès d'écoles qui ont participé auparavant au programme. Raine Hamilton

Raine is a Winnipeg-based singer-songwriter. She sings and plays violin at the same time, and also writes for guitar and voice. Known for her poetic voice and her way with words, Raine pulls from deep within, and with heart and warmth, writes it all down.

She has performed as a solo artist at music festivals across Canada. As part of her adventures, she has shared a stage with Canadian icons Sarah Slean and Catherine MacLellan, played music for her passage on the Via Rail Artists on Board program, and has sailed on the all-night ferry to the far-north islands of Haida Gwaii.

Raine has 16 years of experience working with young people, including five years working in schools. From 2011 to 2013, Raine was the fiddle instructor at Strathcona School, and has worked for the Winnipeg El Sistema program since 2011. Raine's number one feedback from students is that she is a fun teacher.

PROGRAM

SONGWRITING IS FOR EVERYONE! (Grades 1-12)
...and it can be heaps of fun! Because we are all interesting, important, and have a story to share, in this program, students explore what they need to say using time-tested writing prompts about their own memories and experiences.

Students study songs by Manitoba songwriters, learning the building blocks of song sections, and taking in the meaning and poetry of the lyrics.

Students have the chance to come together to write a song on a theme that is important to the group, investigating different ideas and sides of the theme in verses. The artist and school determine how these songs will be shared with others.

WRITING FIDDLE TUNES!

(any age with pre-requisite skills)

Fiddle tunes are built like puzzles, sentences, and stories. If your students are able to play with one, two, and three fingers on the A and E strings, they have the skills needed to write a question/answer fiddle tune.

This field-tested program works well for beginners to advanced players. Along with Raine, students break down a tune they know well, looking at A and B sections, Q/A phrases, and the "home" tone, and then they will write their own Q/A style tunes. A performance of completed tunes with guitar is possible but not required.

Tusia Kozub

Tusia Kozub has been singing and playing music since she was a small child. Her professional life as a musician is very eclectic: piano teacher, vocal coach, recording studio singer, music director and performer (Manitoba Theatre Centre, Prairie Theatre Exchange, Winnipeg Fringe Festival, and Shakespeare in the Ruins), stage performer, and folk choir director.

She has conducted musical workshops for both children and adults. She has sung in many languages and has performed extensively with Aboriginal artists Tom Jackson and Winston Wuttunee. She has recorded two albums with her family, including songs honouring Louis Riel written by her father, and The Kozub Family Sings – Celebrating 100 Years of Ukrainian Settlement in Canada.

PROGRAM

In this program students experience our country's rich cultural diversity by exploring the music and singing the songs of the people who comprise Canada's cultural mosaic.

Students explore the culture of a chosen country by watching videos and listening to recordings. Students sing a songs from that country/culture in the original language, and discover that every song is a story told through music.

Students are encouraged to think creatively and contribute ideas, so that the final musical presentation is truly a collaboration between students, teachers, and the artist. The presentation could be part of a large multicultural celebration at the school.

Tusia also offers workshops on Canadian historical and folk songs, longer term projects at schools without regular music programs (vocal, keyboard, percussion), and special projects such as seasonal concerts and musicals.

Taiko (or “big drum”), a traditional Japanese art form of drumming, combines sheer physicality, exuberant movement, and innovative sounds. Students will learn the history of taiko, as well as its basic playing techniques.

The art of taiko offers students and teachers new artistic tools and techniques that serve as a vehicle in expressing individual interests and talents in a collaborative environment.

The movements required in playing taiko are both visual and audio in nature. Exercises such as stretching, breathing, and body and voice strengthening play an intricate role. Through these exercises and hands-on drumming, students will demonstrate an understanding of how to utilize their muscles effectively. In addition, the students' focus, posture, and artistic expression will be enhanced.

The artist provides all teaching materials.

Mr. Mark

His real name is Mark Cameron, but he's known to countless kids and their families at Canada's Royal Winnipeg Ballet School as Mr. Mark, creator of wild and wonderful dance music for kids.

Armed with a truckload of enthusiasm and instruments, his shows are always lively and engaging. Mr. Mark has performed across Canada at numerous centres including The Banff Centre for the Arts and at numerous festivals: Winnipeg International Children's Festival, Winnipeg Folk Festival, Lunenburg Folk Harbour Festival, and Iqaluit's Alianait Festival. You may have also have seen him and his buddy, Manny Tuba, as part of the Musical Discoveries Concert Series with the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra.

So whether you're singing the praises of Macaroni and Cheese or bouncing to the beat of the Bucketheads... you'll wind up wigglin' and gigglin' and wanting more...Mr. Mark!!

PROGRAM

MUSIC WITH MR. MARK!! — explores the world of sound and how composers organize their work. How many different sounds can you make on a garbage can? A turkey baster? A sump pump hose? Noise is transformed into music by taking a pile of junk (garbage cans, buckets, and hoses) building an orchestra.

The program begins with an interactive concert for the entire school, where Mr. Mark plays his original songs on his very original instruments, and introduces everyone to the notion that all the world's a drum.

Each session starts with a Junk Jam—an improvisational setting in the style of a drum circle, where kids are encouraged to explore and find sounds. During the program, the group will play several musical games intended to teach the concepts of rhythm, time, tempo, loudness, softness, and ... silence.

The program concludes with a performance by students playing their own compositions and providing the soundscape for a story as foley artists. Follow-up materials are available to teachers, and dialogue between teachers and the artist is encouraged.

Jay Stoller

Jay is an African drumming specialist. He holds a Bachelor of Education and a Diploma in African Music from the University of Ghana.

Living and studying drumming in Ghana for almost four years has given Jay a deep understanding of African music and culture, which he has been sharing with students in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Ontario for the past fifteen years.

Jay currently performs with African percussion group Bafana and the Ghanaian cultural dancers, and is also the musical director and lead drummer for NAfro Dance. As well, Jay teaches adult group classes, and operates a corporate team-building franchise and an importing business.

PROGRAM

Jay's African drumming program is a favourite among school children of all ages. In addition to being an extremely enjoyable experience, it incorporates elements of music and social studies curricula. The music component of the program focuses on instruction in African drumming and traditional percussion instruments.

In this program, students discover the importance and function of music and dance in traditional African societies, as well as the diversity of styles and instruments present in Africa. Students learn how African people use dance, music, and stories as an integral part of life.

The first day begins with a full-school assembly and slide presentation from Africa (the crocodile and mud houses get a great response!) On the final day of the residency, students have the opportunity to demonstrate their drumming skills for the school population and parents.

Lindsey White

Called “groovy folk-rock” and showcased on stages all over Canada, the music of Lindsey White uses many instruments and one strong voice to craft performances with unmistakable passion and emotional depth.

Lindsey uses the piano and guitar to craft songs, and also sings and plays the flute, violin and accordion (among other things). Her album Renegade (2015), produced by Mitch Dorge (Crash Test Dummies), expanded her “groovy folk-rock” label to include baroque pop, punk, soul, bossa nova, alternative, and other genres.

Her songwriting and music workshops with creative youth garnered her a nomination for a Winnipeg Arts Council’s Making a Mark Award. She was selected as one of CBC Manitoba’s Future 40.

Lindsey believes that the creative spark exists in everyone. She loves to help others discover their inspiration.

PROGRAMCREATIVE EXPRESSION IN SONGWRITING

This program allows for the experimentation, the championing of existing ideas, the encouragement of fresh creativity, and valuable discussions surrounding the fundamentals of music creation.

Students explore the impact music has on their lives and discover how to express through sound, uniquely saying what only they can through the universal musical language. Through playing, singing, writing, and using instruments, students will create and share a collective story.

Lindsey shares different original songs for each age group, demonstrating the concepts communicated throughout five sessions: music and Ideas; music and expression; music and emotion; music and collaboration; and music and courage.

As new songs come together, students imagine, pretend, and cooperate to make decisions surrounding how their art sounds, feels, begins, and ends.

The program culminates in an opportunity for students to share their creations with others, as determined by the artist and school.

PROGRAM

MUSKRATS AT PLAY

Students who fear failure in standardized approaches to writing often thrive when offered playful alternatives and gain confidence when their ideas are affirmed.

The program begins with forming each student's story within family and community. These stories are shared through movement, drawing, painting, or three-dimensional modeling. The art form chosen will grow throughout the sessions, offering students opportunity to change and develop their thoughts.

The program can be individualized to reflect the skill level, experience, and culture of the students.

Care is taken to optimize communication for children with disabilities, who are encouraged to explore and share their gifts, insights, and interests with the school community.

Leigh-Anne Kehler

Leigh-Anne Kehler is a professional storyteller, actor, and playwright. She has performed at many festivals including the Winnipeg, Regina, and Vancouver Children's Festivals, the Yukon International Storytelling Festival, and the Toronto International Storytelling Festival. Schools in Japan and Thailand have enjoyed her Canadian farm stories.

She has worked as Storyteller in Residence for the Winnipeg Public Library, as well as several Women's Resource Centres and Newcomer Centres. Theatre Projects Manitoba and Northern Light Theatre Edmonton have produced her stage plays, and she has appeared as a principal actor in six short films. With the help of the Canada Council for the Arts and the Manitoba Arts Council, she has produced several touring one-woman storytelling/spoken word productions. She began her work as an Arts Educator 22 years ago at the Prairie Theatre Exchange School.

PROGRAM

STORYTELLING FOR STRONGER WRITING

This program is suitable for students at all grade levels. Leigh-Anne has vast experience working with K-Senior 4, holds a Bachelor of Education and tailors the program for each grade level.

The focus of the residency is transferring skills to teachers and students that they can use throughout the school year.

The students learn how to use "writing on the air" (storytelling) and "illustrating with their bodies" (drama). By following the many activities that are easily understood and facilitated in any classroom space, each class will create at least one original group story.

New ways to access and demonstrate comprehension will be explored by embodying ideas and language through story drama, with voice and point of view also coming into play. Emphasis will be placed on meaning, and how a story's moral and deeper message gives it timeless value.

Jamie's commitment as a storyteller is to promote social justice and human rights; using the wisdom offered in traditional stories to create common ground between people of different cultures and backgrounds.

PROGRAM

UBUNTU

Using curriculum themes chosen by teachers, Jamie will share stories drawn from world folklore, with accompanying activities to create active learning experiences. As the residency progresses, students will discover the power that stories have to bring people together.

During the residency, Jamie will start a new, original story, built around the question "What happens next?" On the final afternoon, participants will gather together to hear the completed story. Everyone is included as part of the same creative community that wants to know what happens next.

"In every school, staff and students alike want to feel that they are part of a community. The Bantu People of Zambia call it Ubuntu. 'I am because we are. We are because I am.' This is I believe, the definition of a strong school community, and where I want to make a meaningful contribution."

Sue Proctor

Sue Proctor M.A. is a storyteller, scriptwriter, performer and workshop leader who has developed many original stories and theatre pieces using puppets and clown. A teacher with Manitoba Theatre for Young People and Association for Community Living Winnipeg, Sue has developed community productions with her group the Drama Divas as well as shows for the Winnipeg Fringe. She has also presented for many years at the Winnipeg International Storytelling Festival, as well as festivals and cabarets across Canada.

PROGRAM

STORY TELLING WITH ANIMATED OBJECTS explores the art of storytelling and makes links to grade appropriate stories from different areas of the curriculum. The artist will collaborate with the teachers about which stories to include in the program. Students will engage in learning skills of listening to, understanding, telling and animating stories. This program will support developing self-confidence and the ability to express and articulate ideas while communicating with others.

The purpose of this program is to encourage reading, comprehension and communication skills by engaging students in oral storytelling and the creation of animated objects. Using recyclable objects to make the characters and setting of a story engages the student's imagination, fine motor skills and interest in literacy.

The arts process of creation helps students develop the ability to bridge between the understanding of ideas, articulation of concepts and transformative action.

Sometimes exploring and retelling a story from a puppet's perspective can give students a safe distance to overcome self-consciousness, express themselves and communicate effectively.

Castlemoon Theatre

Castlemoon is a Theatre for Young Audiences company, specializing in puppetry. Since 2007, Castlemoon has created workshops for young audiences, drawing its stories from children's literature. The company brings together professional composers and visual artists to create the music, soundscape, and visual world of the stories, to engage and inspire the young participants.

Workshop facilitator, Carrie Costello, has worked as a puppeteer for young people since 2000. She has toured throughout Canada, the United States, and Scotland as a puppeteer with companies such as Roseneath Theatre and Carousel Players. Carrie has taught students aged three to fourteen in schools, summer camps, and weekly classes, and expertly gears her class to the skill level and age of her students, allowing them to maximize their creativity, while ensuring their success and mastery.

PROGRAM

PUPPET PLAY! Castlemoon Theatre unites various art forms: literature, music, visual arts and theatre, to keep the students engaged and focused throughout this five day, one hour per day workshop.

Students will explore popular children's stories with puppets on their arms (or fingers or feet) in this intensive puppet program.

Students will design and create a puppet each day, and learn to puppeteer. Each day will focus on a specific skill, through active exercises. The students will then apply their new-found skills in a story, using their creations as characters.

The school, in consultation with the artist, can choose to include specific stories or themes.

The week-long workshop has links to various subjects, including dance (movement in various ways), music (voice, pitch, and tempo), science (animals and their habitat), and English language arts (books and comprehension). A study guide accompanies each workshop highlighting these links and offering suggested extension activities for the classroom.

Shannon Guile

Shannon fell in love with physical comedy when she took a mime course at the University of Winnipeg. She was inspired to create the mime comedy troupe that morphed into Hot Thespian Action. She has also graced independent and professional stages around Manitoba, including Winnipeg Jewish Theatre's Death of a Salesman, Manitoba Theatre Centre's The History of Manitoba, and Foolish Wit's The Mirror.

Always physical, Shannon has fallen for an additional passion, stunt performing, with which she worked on several film and television productions, including Space Network's Todd and the Book of Pure Evil, Universal Studio's Beethoven's Christmas Adventure, and, most recently, Fox Television Studio's Home Alone 5.

When not performing, Shannon teaches mime, improvisation, and creative drama workshops. Recently, Shannon developed a mime program for students at the Deaf Centre of Manitoba and Manitoba School for the Deaf.

PROGRAM

THIS AIN'T YOUR GRANDMA'S MIME!

Mime isn't just the white painted face/striped shirt performer; it is so much more! (Think Jim Carey, Lucille Ball, Buster Keaton...)

This workshop will teach your students how to create physical illusions, focusing on character, mimed objects, storytelling, and comedy. It will inspire physical awareness and observational thinking. By the end, students won't be stuck inside the proverbial box - they will break through it, looking at the world in a new way.

Early Years

STORYTELLING THROUGH MOVEMENT

Students will use mime to bring character and story to life.

Middle Years

MIME AND MOVEMENT

Students will have more in-depth training in mime, and will create physical pieces inspired by mimed objects.

High School

PHYSICAL COMEDY

Students will learn the rules to writing comedy, and will have the chance to apply their new physical skills to comedic scenes, which they will create themselves! Perfect for drama, theatre, writing, and movement classes.

Through structured theatre exercises, students will work independently and in groups to create characters, examine their emotions and personal journeys, and have a chance to experience conflict situations and resolutions from all sides.

Students design and create their own Positive Power Characters and put them into action in improvised and scripted scenes, which can be shared and discussed with schoolmates.

Themes or Topics may include: bullying, citizenship, inclusion, conflict resolution, community, TRC and First Nations education steering committee teaching points, environmental studies, story/novel study.

Daina's approach to teaching is fun and physical. This program is great for learners of all abilities.

They have created and appeared in numerous musical theatre productions, children's festivals, stage shows, and most recently at Thompson Nickel Days. They have conducted workshops for the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, Manitoba Festival of the Arts, and ArtsSmarts. They have collaborated with schools and community groups on special projects, such as Vagabond Theatre Company associated with the Royal Manitoba Theatre Centre, Prairie Theatre Exchange, Manitoba Theatre for Young People, Winnipeg International Fringe Festival, and Rainbow Stage.

Tusia has been music director for a variety of professional theatre productions, and offers her multi-cultural music program through Artists in the Schools.

Judy conducts dance workshops through Artists in the Schools and Artspeak, an innovative Sunrise School Division arts program for grades 9 - 12. She is the author of When Dinosaurs Go Dancing, a recently-published, illustrated children's book for grades K - 3.

PROGRAM

Students will have an exciting and realistic experience in the art of musical theatre. They will sing, dance, and act in performance pieces created with Tusia and Judy.

As well as teaching vocal and dance skills, the program gives students the opportunity to express their creative selves, while balancing technique and self-expression.

Pieces may be created based on existing songs or musical theatre repertoire, or students may choose to compose an original song as the basis for their performance piece.

The program can also be an exciting addition to class studies in multiculturalism, as Kozub and Cook have had several collaborations with schools as facilitators in the creation of concerts featuring songs and dances of various cultures. Longer projects can culminate in seasonal concerts or arts festivals.

Aliza Amihude

Aliza Amihude approaches jewellery as playful body sculpture. Since 1992 she's sold her one-of-a-kind jewellery in Phoenix, Miami, Chicago, Maui, Singapore, Jakarta, Jerusalem, Paris, and across Canada. Some of her clients include Susan Sarandon and the Honourable Adrienne Clarkson.

Following a liberal arts education at the University of Manitoba, Aliza received a Certificate in Manual Arts from École de Joaillerie et de Métaux d'Art de Montréal where she was her year's thesis winner. She also studied at Alberta College of Art and Design in Calgary, winning the Student Legacy Scholarship. Recently she attended George Brown College in Toronto.

Aliza's extensive travelling experiences support her belief that the entire universe is connected, alive, and precious. As an art jeweller, she aims to create a change in people's perceptions by using the ordinary in unusual ways.

PROGRAM

"JEWELLERY!!!" teaches students tool and material-specific techniques while increasing their awareness about the rich history of jewellery as one of the first art forms humans used to express themselves, their beliefs, and communities with. Together, we will explore who each student is and what different colours, cultures, symbols, and materials they presently identify with. Using pliers, cutters, files, and drills, wire, copper sheet metal, vinyl tube, fimo, and found objects, they will make at least 3 unique pieces of jewellery/body ornamentation. Students will walk away not only with practical jewellery-making skills but with more insight into their ability to create realities from their minds, and greater courage to express their true selves.

Aliza Amihude

Aliza Amihude aborde la bijouterie en termes de sculpture corporelle enjouée. Depuis 1992, ses bijoux uniques ont trouvé preneur à Phoenix, Miami, Maui, Singapour, Jakarta, Jérusalem, Paris, et à travers le Canada. Parmi ses clients on retrouve Susan Sarandon et la Très Honorable Adrienne Clarkson.

Dans le sillage d'une formation en arts à l'université du Manitoba, Mme Amihude a décroché un certificat en arts manuels de l'École de Joaillerie et de Métaux d'Art de Montréal, ce qui lui a valu de remporter le prix de Thèse pour cette année-là. Récemment, elle a suivi des cours au collège George Brown à Toronto.

Elle a beaucoup voyagé, ce qui l'a conduite à croire que l'univers tout entier est interrelié, vivant et précieux. En sa qualité de bijoutière d'art, elle cherche à modifier la perception des gens en se servant de choses ordinaires de façons inhabituelles.

Elle vit dans sa ville d'origine, Winnipeg, où elle crée, enseigne, et chante avec son ensemble de jazz d'art Small Girl.

PROGRAMME

« BIJOUX !!! » enseigne aux élèves les techniques spécifiques aux outils et aux matériaux tout en leur faisant prendre conscience de la riche histoire des bijoux en tant que l'une des premières formes de l'art utilisées par l'humain pour s'exprimer et pour communiquer ses croyances et son appartenance communautaire.

Ensemble, nous découvrirons l'identité de chaque élève, ainsi que les couleurs, les cultures, les symboles et les matériaux auxquels il s'identifie actuellement.

Annie Bergen

Annie is a visual artist known primarily for her large-scale murals throughout Winnipeg. An important aspect of her work is her “mural mentorships”, in which she guides students of all ages and levels of ability through the process of creating a mural for their school and community.

Though primarily working in acrylic paint, mixed media is an exciting exploration that Annie is currently incorporating into her own art projects and murals. She loves incorporating tile, glass, found-objects, and various mixed media into her artwork.

Annie is passionate about sharing these skills with others, as well as engaging youth and community members in the creation of eclectic murals and artwork.

PROGRAM

MURAL MAKING

Annie will guide students through the exciting process of making a school mural, which will act as a legacy for years to come. Participants will collaborate and work alongside the artist to conduct research, design, and collectively paint a mural using a range of techniques, tools, and materials.

The goal of the residency is to create a mural that is compositionally pleasing, that involves participation of many (or all) of the students, and that combines the themes, histories, and core values which hold special meaning to students, staff, and community.

Students will experiment with texture and color mixing, and they will learn about lighting, blending, symbolism, perspective, scale, and proportion. Using gel medium, students will be able to add layers and embellishments, including foil, fabric, lace, paper drawings, on top of the painted mural. Students will learn unconventional materials can be great for art-making!

Annie’s hands-on method of working directly with small groups of students translates into a memorable, enriching experience for all those involved. The process is flexible and can be altered to meet the school’s needs.

Lindsey Bond

Lindsey Bond is a photo-based artist who creates collaborative photographic works and video installations that explore the starting points of culture and sidelines of community. Lindsey received her BFA in Photography from Emily Carr University of Art and Design and studied Visual Communications at Edinburgh College of Art and Design, Scotland. She works with a documentary ethic that speaks to an intentional combination of research, analogue processes and intuition.

She has taught children, youth and adults at Art City, The Children's Museum, The Art Gallery of Alberta and Artist-Run-Centers such as PLATFORM centre for photographic + digital arts and Harcourt House.

PROGRAM

EXPERIMENTAL PHOTOGRAPHY: DRAWING WITH LIGHT — Imagine stepping inside a camera! In this program students will work together to create a life-size Camera Obscura exploring early image making and questioning the definition and role of photography today. Known in its early days as a "collecting-plate" or drawing aid, the Camera Obscura has long held a unique relationship with photography and painting. The Camera Obscura in this program can be understood as an optical phenomenon that brings an outside window view inside; turning the classroom into a camera.

This program builds students' awareness about the inner workings of early cameras and optics by exploring the photographic fundamentals such as: perspective, focus, light theory, and composition.

The program can be structured in a few different ways: students can build and photograph with pinhole cameras (from cardboard template) and/ or create a large mural using imagery collected from the Camera Obscura.

The mural evolves through different activities including: sketching light-shapes from the Camera Obscura, collecting and projecting natural materials from nature walks, and painting.

Pinhole cameras involve building from a cardboard template, photographing outside with Direct Positive B&W Photo Paper, and finish with darkroom processing.

At the conclusion of the program, the class installs the imagery created, discuss the role analog photography plays in art and explore how spaces and objects in our local environment can express perspective.

The experimental nature of this program makes photography an accessible and inclusive art form, opening up the creative potential of students individually and collectively in a way that lends itself to both active and passive participants no matter their size, age...or mobility.

Her background in history informs her art-making, which largely centres on a contemplation of the human condition.

She has worked extensively in Winnipeg's inner-city neighbourhoods, instructing a wide range of art programs. As an artist-instructor for invaluable community youth art centres, such as Graffiti Art Programming and Art City, she has developed dozens of courses and camp programs, including recycle-build, animation, video art, jewellery design, still-life drawing, art history, and community art.

PROGRAM

RECYCLED EXPRESSION is a great way for students of all ages to explore the broad history of art and art makers in an accessible and engaging way.

Using recycled materials, students will draw inspiration from historic works or styles to create a masterpiece of their own.

Mimicking how a particular art piece was made or investigating why a style developed will help students relate to others and embrace art making as a universal tool for investigation, communication, reflection, and expression.

Equally beneficial, making art with reclaimed materials teaches students to re-evaluate waste, challenges their creativity, and makes the study of art more accessible and less intimidating.

Recycled Expression classes are extremely adaptable to the curricular needs of teachers and to the developmental needs of their students. Educators can work closely with Natasha to fine-tune a theme suiting their goals.

Natasha Halayda

Artiste visuelle et artisane, Natasha Halayda a obtenu un baccalauréat en beaux-arts et a étudié l'histoire mondiale à l'Université du Manitoba, ainsi que l'histoire de l'art à l'Université Concordia. Sa pratique interdisciplinaire accorde la priorité au message par rapport au médium et elle s'inspire d'un éventail de formats visuels, y compris la peinture, l'assemblage, l'installation et la sculpture. Ses antécédents en histoire de l'art informent sa pratique artistique, qui se concentre principalement sur la contemplation de la condition humaine.

Elle a beaucoup travaillé dans les quartiers du centre-ville de Winnipeg, où elle a participé comme formatrice à une gamme étendue de programmes artistiques. À titre d'artiste et de formatrice à l'emploi d'ineestimables centres artistiques communautaires pour la jeunesse, tels que Graffiti Art Programming et Art City, elle a élaboré des douzaines de cours et de programmes de camps qui touchaient la création avec des matières recyclées, l'animation, l'art vidéo, la conception de bijoux, le dessin de natures mortes, l'histoire de l'art et l'art communautaire.

PROGRAMME

artistiques de manière accessible et engagée. Utilisant des matériaux recyclés, les élèves s'inspireront d'œuvres ou de styles historiques pour créer leurs propres chefs-d'œuvre. L'imitation du processus de création d'une œuvre particulière et l'exploration des motifs du développement d'un style aideront les élèves à créer des liens avec les autres et à adopter la création artistique comme un outil universel d'enquête, de communication, de réflexion et d'expression. Tout aussi bénéfique, la création d'œuvres d'art avec des matériaux récupérés enseigne aux élèves à réévaluer les déchets, à stimuler leur créativité, et à accroître l'accessibilité et à atténuer le caractère intimidant de l'étude des arts.

Les cours du programme Recycled Expression s'adaptent facilement aux besoins pédagogiques des enseignants et aux besoins de développement des élèves. Les éducateurs peuvent collaborer étroitement avec Natasha pour préciser un thème adapté à leurs objectifs.

This program introduces students to the culture, traditions, and art of Argentina.

Exploration of Vanesa's provocative photographic images of the different provinces, climates, and landscapes of Argentina invite students to create an imaginary land that they would like to visit.

Inspired by the art of the inventor Xul Solar and the work of Argentina's famous cartoonist Quino, students use a variety of art techniques to create landscapes, inhabitants, language, and symbolism to create their imaginary lands.

The program culminates with students sharing their works of art as part of the traditional Argentinian ritual of the Mate Ceremony.

Students will participate in both team and individual activities to practice the art of seeing. They will explore light, follow simple rules of composition, use the language of photography, communicate using images and symbols, and create memorable photographs.

Barry will also present a brief history of photography and students will view and discuss examples of work by famous photographers.

On the final day of the residency, students' work may be displayed in an exhibition or a large screen projection, depending on the school's resources. This program can also link to technology and other curriculum.

He received a certificate in commercial arts from Red River College and since then has worked as an artist, musician, and teacher, giving workshops to both children and adults. His paintings have been exhibited throughout Manitoba since 1993. Wildlife, the native people, and their legends inspire both his music and his artwork. His paintings contain multiple images that bring together elements of the land, the people, and their history. Through his paintings he succeeds in expressing something of the North's mystery and beauty.

PROGRAM

COLOUR & SOULS is a workshop in painting with gouache, and uses different styles and techniques in a multiple-image painting. This hands-on program incorporates sketching exercises and discussion about composition, light & balance, and the properties of gouache.

CARTOONING PLUS COURSE (4–12) is a workshop in creating and drawing original cartoons. Gérald begins with a discussion/demonstration of line and symbol, and guides students in exploring the range of expressions these convey. Students proceed through the workshop by drawing objects, then developing and drawing characters, and finally creating a story situation and resolution. Students enjoy the technique of cartooning and the development of their own artistic ideas. They also learn how symbolic characteristics can express personality.

MURALS combining drawing and painting techniques from both programs, the student will create a mural for their school.

Niki has been involved in the arts from a young age, illustrating children's books, facilitating art workshops for youth, and building a professional career in the arts.

She is interested in the way art has a way of shaping, bringing together, and reflecting different communities. As an artist, her practice blends cultural skill-based practices such as beading, fleshing and tanning hide with drawing, video, and installation.

Niki was the Distribution Coordinator at the Winnipeg Film Group before stepping into the role as National Director for the National Indigenous Media Art Coalition. She is a member of the Public Arts Committee for the Winnipeg Arts Council (MB) and a committee member for the Art Advisory Committee, Art Advisory Committee for the Department of Sport, Culture, and Heritage. PROGRAM

WOODLANDS SELF-PORTRAIT

Northern Manitoba and Ontario are home to the Woodland style of painting. This painting style reflects elements of the landscape, culture, the people who live there, creating a unique way of seeing and relating to the land.

The Woodland style was developed in the early 1970s by Jackson Beardy and Norval Morrisseau. Both artists were a part of one of Canada's most important Indigenous art collectives, the Professional Native Indian Artists Inc (PNIAI), which paved the way for a new generation of Indigenous artists.

Nikki shares with students the symbolism found in the colours, animals, spiritual and human representation grounded in Ojibwe (Midiwewin) and Oji-Cree (Anishinini) traditions and teachings.

Students create their own self portrait, visually presenting themselves through colour, culture, and personal perspective.

Dimitry has taught art to people of all ages, through mosaic workshops and classes offered in his home studio, Studio on Strathcona, and other venues such as the Winnipeg Art Gallery Studio Programs and through the Winnipeg School Division. His artistic practice lends itself to involving people, especially those who do not have prior artistic experience or inclination. He takes a very hands-on approach, and always strives to make art accessible and meaningful.

For Dimitry, art is about the process: art is created “one piece at a time.”

PROGRAM

THE ART OF MOSAIC teaches participants how to create distinctive artworks with pieces of ceramic or glass tile. Projects can range from individual mosaics affixed to wood panels, trays, or other three-dimensional objects, to large-scale, permanent installations on walls, furniture, or building exteriors.

A typical residency begins with an introduction to the art of mosaic and a demonstration of the tools, techniques, and supplies that will be used to create the artworks. Students will be encouraged to come up with ideas for their individual or group projects and to sketch them out on paper. Subsequent workshop sessions are dedicated to creating the mosaic: finalizing designs, cutting or selecting tile pieces, and assembling, gluing, and grouting the tile compositions. This program is suited to all ages and skill levels, and is guaranteed to spark creativity and instill confidence.

Becky Thiessen is a Winnipeg-based, multimedia artist with over 15 years of community arts facilitation and education. Art City Inc., Graffiti Art Programming Inc., The North End Arts Centre, Art From the Heart, Manitoba Arts Council, and several school divisions, are just a few of the many organizations that she has worked with.

Becky's inspiration comes from the excited minds of children. Their willingness to try, and their inhibition has given her the opportunity to see the world differently.

She experiments and challenges herself through painting, drawing, textiles, assemblage, sculpture, and digital media. She moves fluidly from various art forms, always trying something new and striving to learn more.

From hand-cut stencilled murals, to large scale installations, to tiny hand sewn objects, her work is ever evolving; each piece adds to the previous, narrating her life, and building a personal story through art. Heartfelt and painful stories, with themes of her natural and urban environment, are exhibited throughout her work.

Her empathetic, encouraging and gentle spirit inspires others to create, just as they inspire her.

PROGRAM

In STENCIL MAKING, students will explore a technique that is thousands of years old. In an age where everything is digitized, students will slow down and learn a low-tech process in which they will design, cut, and stamp their own personal statements.

Becky will guide the students through the stencil making process. Students will learn techniques to successfully make their mark, and will each create their own personal logo to identify themselves. The logo can be applied to t-shirts, bags, pillow cases, or posters.

This workshop encourages students to experiment in the endless possibilities and applications of stencilling. Students can create individual projects or work in groups to create larger pieces of art - such as a mural!

Becky's workshop is accessible to all ages and levels of ability.
